

Volunteering: Caitlyn's story

Volunteer Communication and Research Officer

Caitlyn joined the Marketing and Communication team in early 2014, as a part of her Business Degree. In her time with UnitingCare Community Caitlyn helped with a number of ongoing projects.

In her nine months at UnitingCare Community, Caitlyn worked on the Brisbane Bookfest promotions and advertising; PsychAware, which provides suicide prevention workshops in rural communities; retail events such as the Lifeline $2 Clothing Sale; as well as internal communications for UnitingCare Community.

Caitlyn is currently a student at APM College, where she is studying a Bachelor of Business and Marketing, and hopes to continue working in the not-for-profit sector.

For Caitlyn, working with UnitingCare Community is very rewarding.

“It’s a great work experience, and I love working with this team,” she said.
